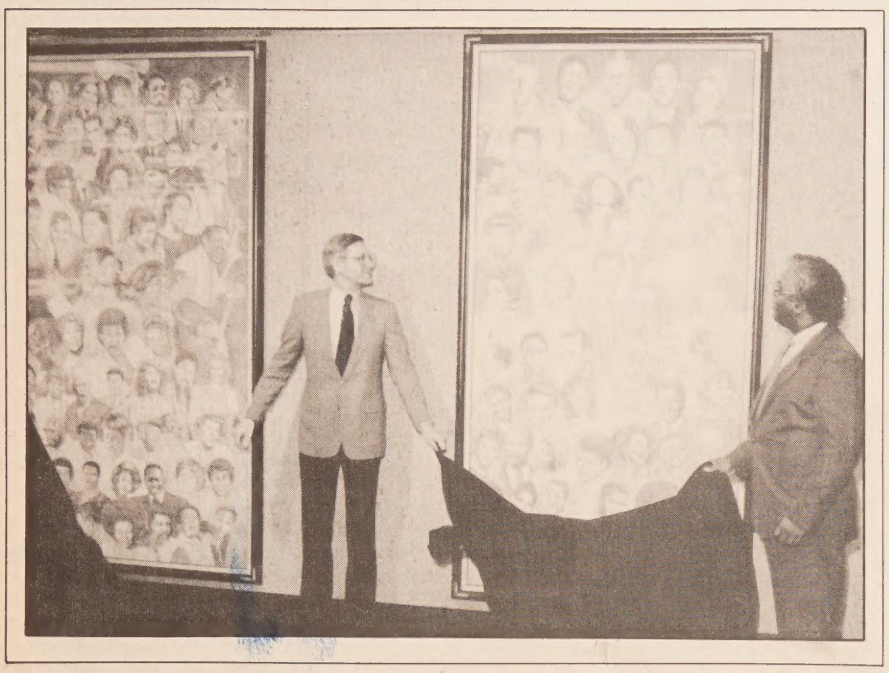
Nabisco Brands INC. Donates Murals Of Famous Black American Entertainers"



Charles Stewart, principal of the Los Angeles County High School for the Arts, and Herb Bright, senior manager of personnel services and programs at Nabisco's Brands' "Famous Black American Entertainers" mural.

The murals were donated to the Los Angeles County High School for the Arts during a ceremony Feb. 24 in the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library at California State University. The posters, "Famous Black American Entertainers," were produced from the murals.

If you walked into any school classroom during black history month, chances are you saw Nabisco Brands Inc.'s posters, "Famous Black American Entertainers Part I and Part II," hanging on the wall.

Nabisco Brands distributed more posters this year during black history month than in the history of its "Famous Black American" project. More than 1.2 million "Famous Black American Entertainers" posters were distributed throughout the United States during February.

Sixth in Nabisco Brands' collection of "Famous Black Americans," the "Famous Black American Entertainers" posters were requested by people in Mexico, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, the Philippines and Canada as well as by people in foreign countries such as Germany, Japan and China.

The posters, designed for in-school use, are distributed year-round to schools, colleges, civic organizations, churches, fraternal organizations and individuals at no charge.

Nabisco Brands expects

Featuring 24 outstanding black educators, Nabisco distributed the first poster in its black heritage project in 1977. A year later a poster depicting 10 civil rights leaders was released.

In 1979 Nabisco Brands officially named the project "Famous Black Americans." Nabisco commissioned a promising black artist from Winston-Salem, N.C., to draw the murals. Artist james Huff has been creating the "Famous Black Americans" collection ever since.

Nabisco launched its first series in the "Famous Black Americans" collection in 1980. "Famous Black American Writers" featured 15 black writers. The original drawing by Huff was donated to Clark College in Atlanta, Ga.

In 1981 the series recognized the accomplishments of 20 black scientists. Nabisco donated the original drawing by Huff to Virginia Union University in Richmond, Va.

For the next two years, Nabisco Brands updated its earlier posters of educators and civil rights leaders to encompass the new name and design.

"Famous Black American Educators," distributed in 1983 and 1984, focused onmany educators who did not appear on the first educators poster in 1977. Huff's original drawing was donated to the Mary McLeod Bethune Museum and National Archives for Black Women's History, which is operated by the National Council of Negro Women in Washington, D.C.

The next poster in Nabisco's "Famous Black Americans" collection recognized the achievements of black generals and admirals. More than 350,000 of the posters were distributed in 1985. Huff's original drawing depicting 68 military heroes was presented to Tuskegee Institute. Most people are requesting the entire collection of "Famous Black Americans."

Requests for Nabisco Brands' "Famous Black Americans" collection should be directed to B & C Associates, Inc., P.O. Box 2636, High Point, N.C. 27261.

Nicaragua

Republican and Democratic leaders agreed that the President's nationally televised speech Sunday night, in which he appealed to members of the public to contact their representatives, failed to generage a surge of public sentiment in favor of his aid proposal.

The offices of most members of Congress reported that calls ran significantly against the President.

"The Great Communicator didn't reach the American people," said Representative Jim Cooper, Democrat of Tennessee, who reported that 60 percent of his callers opposed helping the rebels. "I wouldn't fault his communication skills, I would fault the product he was seling.

Bigger Worries Are Noted

Representative Robert H. Michel, the Republican leader, expressed disappointment that the calls were running about even in his Illinois district.

"People just don't get cranked up about this," said Mr. Michel, who supports the President. "In my district they're worried about jos and losing their farms. That's the problem out there in the country."

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said of the President, "We have him by 10 or 12 votes." And Thomas S. Foley of Washington, the majority whip, said, "it's going to be a fairly close vote, but we're going to win."

Trent Lott of Mississippi, the minority whip, agreed that "there hasn't been a mass movement" toward the President's position and that "the balance still hangs with 10 people." But he added that the President could still squeak through if he "follows through" on his television speech with personal lobbying.

The President held several meetings at the White House with wavering lawmakers and reports circulated on Capitol Hill that the Administration was offering to look favorably on pet projects in exchange for votes on the aid issues.

"There is trading going on," said Representative David E. Bonior, Democrat of Michigan, but he declined to provide specific examples.

Publicly, the Administration has insisted that it will consider no compromise on its request of $70 million in military aid and $30 milion for such nonmilitary purposes as food and medicine. But lawmakers in both parties reported that White House aides were quietly asking for recommendations that Mr. Reagan could include in a letter to Congress just before the vote.

Presumably the leter would include some sort of a promis by the President to pursue negotiations with the Nicaraguan Government. The wide-spread belief that Mr. Reagan has not seriously sought a negotiated settlement is the single biggest argument against his aid request, lawmakers agree.

Representative John R. McKernan Jr. of Maine, one of a small group of undecided Republicans, said that if sch a letter was "strict enough" and could not be "twisted" by the White House, it might win the President a few extra votes.

Even supporters of the President have been surprised that his speech on Sunday did not generate more support for his proposal. But foreign policy issues seldom make a major impact on Capitol Hill and Representative Michel said of Nicaragua: "Most people don't understand"

Speaker O'Neil said many voters "just don't think we've gone the route of diplomacy" and fear deeper American military involvement in the region.

"The shadows of Vietnam haven't left us," Mr. O'Neil

Chicago Election Far From Being Dull

Chicago-Style Politics

It was, The Chicago Sun-Times said in its editorial this morning, "a Chicago-style campaign."

"Yes, yawns are rare and passions have run high," the editorial said, "but what else is new? This is Chicago, where people take elections seriously and personally."

That was evident in the 26th Ward, where two men of Puerto Rican descent were running: Manuel A. Torres, a former County Commissioner who is backed by what remains of the old Democratic machine, and luis V. Gutierrez, a former Deputy Commissioner of Streets and Sanitation, who is backed by Mayor Harold Washington.

The Mayor was seeking to bring an end to the 29-member majority bloc that has opposed him on most issues and refused to act on more than 50 nominations to boards and commissions that he has made since taking office nearly three years ago. If four of the seven Aldermen elected today or in the April 29 runoff elections join the Mayor's bloc, Mr. Washington would gain control of the City Council.

Words Of Wisdom

WHO HATH BELIEVED OUR REPORT? AND TO WHOM IS THE ARM OF THE LORD REVEALED?

FOR HE SHALL GROW UP BEFORE HIM AS A ROOT OUT OF THE GROUND.

HE HATH NO FORM OR COMILINESS: AND WHEN WE SHALL SEE HIM, THERE IS NO BEAUTY THAT WE SHOULD DESIRE HIM.

LAMENTATION 4

How is the gold become dim! how is the most fine gold changed! the stones of the sanctuary are poured out in the top of every street.

The precious sons of Zion, comparable to fine gold, how are they esteemed as earthen pitchers, the work of the hands of the potter!

Even the sea monsters draw out the breast, they give suck to their young ones: the daughter of my people is become cruel, like the ostriches in the wilderness.

The tongue of the sucking child cleaveth to the roof of his mouth for thirst: the young children ask bread, and no man breaketh it unto them.

They tht did feed delicately are desolate in the streets: they that were brought up in scarlet embrace dunghills.

For the punishment of the iniquity of the daughter of my peple is greater than the punishment of the sin of Sodom, that was overthrown as in a moment, and no hands stayed on her.

Her Nazarites were purer than snow, they were whiter than milk, they were more ruddy in body than rubies their polishing was of sapphire:

Their visage is blacker than a coal; they are not known in the streets: their skin cleaveth to their bones; it is withered, it is become like a stick.

They that be slain with the sword are better than they that be slain with hunger: for these pine away, stricken through for want of the fruits of the field.

The hands of the pitiful women have sodden their own chldren: they were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people.

The Lord hath accomplished his fury; he hath poured out is fierce anger, and hath kindled a fire in Zion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof.

The kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world, would not have believed that the adversary and the enemy should have entered into the gates of Jerusalem.

For the sins of her prophets, and the iniquities of her priests, that have shed the blood of the just in the midst of her,

They have wandered as blind men in the streets, they have polluted themselves with blood, so that men could not touch their garments.

They cried unto them, Depart ye; it is unclean; depart, depart, touch not: when they fled away and wandered, they said unto the heathen, They shall no more sojourn there.

The anger of the Lord hath divided them; he will no more regard them: they respected not the persons of the priests, they favoured not the elders.

As for us, our eyes as yet failed for our vain help: in our watching we have watched for a nation that could not save us.

They hunt our steps, that we cannot go in our streets: our end is near, our days are fulfilled; for our end is come.

Our persecutors are swifter than the eagles of the heaven: they pursued us upon the mountains, they laid wait for us in hte wlderness.

The breath of our nostrils, the anointed of the Lord, was taken in their pits, of whom we said, Under his shadow we shall live among the heathen.

Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, that dwellest in the land of Uz; the cup also shall pass through unto thee: thou shalt be drunken, and shalt make thyself naked.

The punishment of thine iniquity is accomplished, O daughter of Zion; he will no more carry thee away into captivity: he will visit thine iniquity, O daughter of Edom; he will discover thy sins.

LAMENTATIONS 5: 1-8

Remember, O Lord, what is come upon us: consider, and behold our reproach.

Our inheritance is turned to strangers, our houses to aliens.

We are orphans and fatherless, our mothers are as widows.

We have drunken our water for money; our wood is sold unto us.

Our necks are under persecution: we labour, and have no rest.

We have given the hand to the Egyptians, and to the Assyrians, to be satisfied with bread.

Our fathers have sinned, and are not; and we have borne their iniquities.

Servants have ruled over us: there is none that doth deliver us out of their hand.

THE DOCTORS PRESCRIPTION

Cure For Dead Churchs

None of us can be deeply moved and feel very great without demonstrating our emotions outwardly. It is absolutely accurate to determine the vitality present in any meeting by the audible "Amens", by raised hands, by applause shouting, dancing or by any other outward action.

Yet, in fact, some churches services are dead. Some worship services are mechanical, dull, routine. Thank God, this is not true everywhere, but in some places going to church on Sunday is little more exciting than visiting a morgue.

There can be physical reasons for dead services. Cost consciousness or carelessness during building programs have forced some congregations to worship with poor acoustics. This, without question adversely affects the services.

Poorly planned services can be a problem. Momentum is lost when the congregation must wait while a participant gets ready to contribute his part to a service. Announcements especially tedious rehearsals of what is already printed or posted somewhere, distract from the focus upon the Lord that should be maintained. Better to sing a hymn or listen to a choral selection while the offering is being received than to have trivial conversations with seatmates that often accompany an instrumental offertory.

Years ago, through something he wrote, Elton Trueblood pointed out that the very arrangments of our worship services encourage us to think of ourselves as being at a performance. Our church buildings are rather like concert halls. Choir and sometimes clergy wear robes, like the costumes of actors. Platforms mey be spotlighted like stages. This and more causes us to think of ourselves at a show being put on by the professionals. But in fact, clergy are not performers and we the spectators. We are the performers and God is the spectator.

We may come to church weary from having stayed up too late the night before. We may not feel like singing.

We pay pastors to lead us and expect instrumentalists and choirs to be well rehearsed. Why should we not sit back, relax and watch the "show"?

We must not because the vitality of the service depends on our personal input. What we enchances or detracts from the life of a meeting. If the average Christian would put half the enthusiasm and diligence into the Sunday

On Friday, February 7, 1986 at 9:00 a.m., the McChord Plaza Cleaners at 12923 Bridgeport Way SW was robbed by a lone suspect.

The suspect entered the business and pointed a small handgun at the clerk telling her, "This is a hold up, give me all your money bags." The suspect was told the money bags had already been picked up and the only money was in the till.

The clerk was ordered to lie on the floor while the suspect opened the till and removed the cash. The suspect fled out the door and out of sight.

Area Schools To Benefit From Coupon Redemption Program

BELLEVUE, WA -- Schools in Western Washington and Alaska will get help from Safeway Stores, Inc. in fighting tight budget problems by redeeming 200,000 labels from a variety of Campbells Soup Company products.

The labels, which give participating public and private schools the opportunity to obtain much needed educational, audio visual and athletic equipment, were issued to Safeway's Seattle Division because of its merchandising and advertising support of the Campbell Soup Company's popular Labels for Education program.

Safeway's Seattle division plans to distribute 20,000 labels among schools in each of its ten retail districts in Western Washington and Alaska. District Managers in each area will contact participating schools to determine their needs.

"Safeway is pleased to participate in the Labels for Education program, because it is firmly committed to enhancing the education of children in our community," says Cherie Myers, Public Relations Manager.

They will be part of an estimated quarter billion labels, worth$4 million that Campbells expects to be redeemed nationally during the 1985-1986 school year, according to H. Pierce Pelouze, III, Vice President of Promotion for CSC Advertising, Inc., a Campbell subsidiary.

"Since it began 12 years ago, the Labels for Education program has redeemed more than 2 billion labels, from tens of thousands of the nations' schools, and distributed equipment valued at more than $30 million," Pelouze said.

Kingdom To Be Be Officially 10 YRS Old

That will be the theme of a breakfast meeting on the floor of the stadium, 7:30 a.m., Wednesday, March 26 when the Seattle/King County Convention & Visitors Bureau joins with the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company of Seattle to salute the multipurpose facility that many people thought would never be built.

The Kingdome will officially be 10 years old on March 27, but the observance was moved up one day to accomodate the move-in of the Custom Auto & Hot Boat Show that runs through that weekend.

Free walking tours of the building will also be offered that day at 2, 3, and 4 p.m. Tours for the handicapped will also be available and can be arranged by calling 628-3331. Complimentary parking will be offered in the stadium's South Parking Lot.

Former Governor and King County Executive John D. Spellman, the man credited with pushing the stadium project through to completion, will be guest of honor. He will be joined by sports stars and many of the public and civic officials who were instrumental in the successful completion of the Kingdome.

Also on hand will be regular and part-time employees who have worked in the Dome since opening night. They will be awarded a 10-year pin commemorating their service.

Tickets for the breakfast celebration may be obtained by contacting the Seattle/King County Convention & Visitors Bureau, 447-4200.

Super Run 2 Qualifying Race To Be Held In Tacoma

The City of Tacoma will be hosting Washington State's only qualifying race for SUPER RUN II, AMERICA'S RACE on Saturday, April 5, 1986 at 9:00 a.m. at Pt. Defiance Park over a course of rolling hills, beginning with the Rockport 1-mile Fitness Walk.

There will be a qualifying 10-K race in each state to select one male and one female to be sent to Lake Tahoe. At Lake Tahoe, Network Enterprises, Inc. of California will hold SUPER RUN II, AMERICA'S RACE, where runners will compete for the opportunity to win $1 million, split equally between the winners. If a bogus runner is discovered at any stage of the races, he or she will be disqualified.

All State of Washington residents are encouraged to enter the qualifying race in Tacoma. Anyone, regardless of citizenship, is eligible to enter the 1-mile Rockport Fitness Walk. The entry fee will be $5.00 and will include a certificate, souvenir pin or patch, discount coupons for SUPER RUN II clothing, and free refreshments after the race. For further information or any forms, please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Tacoma Run, SUPER RUN II, America's Race, 747 Market Street, #1244, Tacoma, Washington 98402.

Vibrant Jazz Dance

SEATTLE -- Les Ballets Jazz de Montreal brings its unique and vibrant jazz dance to Seattle April 3, 4 and 5 at 8 p.m. in Meany Theater on the University of Washington campus. The three performances are part of the Dance at Meany series.

Les Ballets Jazz de Montreal combines jazz dance with ballet and contemporary influences. The company, founded in 1972 by Genevieve Salbaing and Eva von Gencsy, state its goal is "to entertain audiences with a breed of dancing that wins the heart and exhilarates the body." Critics say Les Ballets Jazz de Montreal has a particular talent for translating the oscillations of jazz into spectacular movement.

Salbaing, who has been the company's artistic director since 1978, has the following to say about what they do: "Dance is dance. It shouldn't say anything. It should be emotional, vigorous, down-to-earth. I don't ever remember not having had a standing ovation. They all react the same way. You don't have to be sophisticated to understand what we do."

Tickets for Les Ballets Jazz de Montreal's performances April 3, 4 and 5 at 8 p.m. in Meany Theater may be purchased by calling 543-4880, or by visiting the UW Arts Ticket Office, 4001 University Way NE. Prices are $19 and $17. Half price tickets are available for students for the opening night performance.

Come To Church Services

ST. JOHN 10:1-10

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am a door of the sheep.

All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Doctors Prescription

morning worship service that is put into a Sunday School picnic or into efforts to entertain friends for dinner, a lot of dead church wervices would be revived.

We must come to church services early enough to participate from the beginning. We must come prepared to sing, to praise, to pray, to feel gratitude to God with our whole hearts. We must work at being alert, interested, positive in attitude, constructive, enthusiastic. Worship is work that is more worthy than our effort in any other enterprise.

Church services, if dead, need to be revitalized. Any of us who are a part of such a dead service can help produce a resurrection.

Chicago

All that seemed to matter little to the people on the streets Wednesday. For them this was an election that might bring someone to office who would care about high unemployment, even higher school dropout rates, rutted streets, broken sidewalks, heavily littered vacant lots and crumbling or boarded-up buildings, al features of their ward.

"We don't want no more cheese and garbage cans," Cesar Soto said. "Torres is giving people cheese and free garbage cans, trying to buy the people."

"What did Gutierrez give us?" Moses Vasquez asked, getting an argument going among six young men working the corner of Rockwell Avenue and LeMoyne Street.

Leon Holliman, a black youth, said he supported Mr. Torres because he was "a neighborhood guy."

Toll-Free Information Hotline For Initative 487

Seattle-- Due to an overwhelming number of calls, the Committee for Sensible Liquor Reform today announced it's new toll-free hotline. The new number is 1-800-654-4817. The Committee is sponsoring Initiative 487, an initiative whic will take the state out of the liquor business. Citizens across Washington are urged to call the information hotline during ormal business hours with their inquiries about Initiative 487. Those wishing to have blank petitions sent to them may call anytime, 24 hours a day.

Committee Executive Director Russell McCurdy says their offices have been inundated with calls from interested and supportive citizens. He adds, "People all across the state want to know more about Initiative 487 and how it will benefit them. We installed our toll-free line so that calls for information and petitions will be free to everyone."

Use Free Will Against Racism

If you're typical, you do not believe in astrology, but you know your astrological sign.

And you probably do not want Americans dying in a war in Nicaragua. However, Reagan administration officials have warned that American troops may be sent there if congress does not allocate enough aid for the "contra" forces.

This affords us an opportunity to test astrology. The government is saying that it is ready for war. In fact, astrology articles published in March were written months ago and they predicted that the United States government would behave this month as though it had a chip on its shoulder and was willing to have it knocked off by "anyone who comes along." And it did.

Terrorism, of a particularly gruesome type, against Americans is also likely. It will, say the pundits, precipitate this American militaristic notion. To make matters worse, America's allies will once again behave as though nothing had happened.

Why such a fateful forecast? The star gazers blame this foul mood on Halley's Comet, called "the witch of the skies." It made its first close approach on November 27, 1985; the next one will occur on April 11, 1986.

The last time Halley's Comet visited earth was on April 10, 1910. A tide of disasters followed. While governments fell in Belgium, France, Austria and Italy, the Mad Mullah rose in Morocco. There was a naval mutiny in Brazil; 200,000 died in the Mesina earthquake, 60,000 perished in the Siberian plague; and 100,000 washed away in the Yangtze flood. Oh yes, King Edward VII died.

Included among the sinister influences of the April visit is a potential space or aerial warfare, an American government that continues to spend more while professing to spend less (you don't need astrology to tell you that), financial trouble for Libya and "the fires of hate" and fear consuming South Africa--especially Johannesburg.

Individually, you should be most affected if you were born near March 31st or October 12th. There could be arguments; the advice is not to make enemies. Social relations, the experts say, are being tested. If you were born near January 9th or July 2nd, forced changes such as evictions, job transfers or moving can be blessings in disguise.

The "witches" blessings (fort of) may fall on those born near January 1st or near July 11th. You may be tested for endurance, status or security. If you pass, it could mean a promotion; if you fail, a past crime or blunder may be exposed, and you will pay for it.

Of course, whether these acts of fate occur or not, free will acts upon fate either to reinforce its influence or to reduce its effect on our lives. The manner in which we individually choose to meet Halley's Comet's sinister promises of terrorism, war in Nicaragua or being evicted from our home is up to us.

Look for the unsettling influences to intensify on April 9th at the eclipse and on April 11th when the earth meets Halley's Comet. But look to yourself--your own free will--to make the difference.

Now suppose "the witch of the skies" was racism and you were you. Would you stay in second place because of the devious influences?

Or would you use your God-given free will and break its hold?

You can test your free will this April 11th (my birthday) for openers. It will show all of us what kind of shape we're into deal with racism.

Combining Your IRAs For Better Results

With the April 15 deadline for 1985 IRA contributions fast approaching, it's a good time to consolidate all* your IRA investments into one account.

By now you may have accounts at several financial institutions, each containing one year's $2,000 contribution, plus earnings. Many investors have ended up with a grab-bag of IRAs because they wanted to diversify or because they tried to get the best return on each year's contribution. So one year they bought a bank CD; the next, a bond fund; the third, an equity mutual fund.

That is not the best way to diversify, however. Because the amount in each account is small, you limit your flexibility. Additionally, you may not have a wide variety of inestment alternatives at many financial institutions. If you combine all your IRA accounts into a single self-directed IRA at a brokerage firm, you increase both the amount available for promising investments and the speed with which you can shift your money. You also expand your investment choices to include individual stocks and bonds, as well as the widest array of "managed" investment products (such as mutual funds, unit trusts and limited partnerships).

During the recent stock market run-up, for instance, you could have quickly moved 50%, 75% or even 100% of your money into stocks if you'd had a self-directed IRA. You could have invested in equity mutual funds, individual stocks or a combination of the two.

A self-directed IRA offers other benefits. You get the advice and assistance of a Financial Consultant, who alerts you to emerging opportunities and is always available to discuss your investment strategy. And you reduce your bookkeeping chores, since you'll get one monthly statement instead of three or four.

The mechanics of moving an IRA from one institution (custodian) to another are fairly straightforward. You have two options: a rollover or a transfer. In a rollover, you direct the current custodian to liquidate your assets and send you a check. You then have 60 days to deposit the money into an IRA rollover with a different custodian.

The main advantage of a rollover is that it's the quickest way to get your money from the first custodian. But you can do only one rollover a year per account. And if you miss the deadline, you'll have to pay a 10% penalty for a premature distribution of the IRA proceeds, and you'll have to declare the entire amount as income on your tax return.

In a transfer, you direct your new custodian to request your IRA assets from your present custodian. You don't personally get the money, so you don't have to worry about missed deadlines, tax penalties, etc. Plus, you are permitted an unlimited number of transfers each year.

The problem with transfers is that financial institutions often act very slowly to relinquish assets. Delays of several weeks can occur. However, when you transfer your IRAs to a full-service brokerage firm, your Financial Consultant will ride herd on the previous custodian for you, speeding the release of your assets.

*You may not want to merge an IRA to which you make your annual contribution, and an IRA rollover, which is funded with a lump sum distribution from a previous employer's qualified plan. The reason is that at some future time, you may wish to rollover the prior rollover contribution into another qualified plan. If it is comingled with a contributory IRA, this would prelude a rollover into another qualified plan.

Job Service For Young People

In just a couple of months, when the school year ends, the job market will be flooded with thousands of students.

Although 9.1 million jobs have been created nationwide since the recession in 1982, the number of jobs for teenagers has decreased. Young people account for 18 percent of the unemployed.

Last year in Washington state the average unemployment rate for young people was almost twice as high as for the general population and the rate for minority youth was three times higher.

Early this year, through the cooperation of the Commission on Vocational Education, Employment Security launched a project to assist Black, Hispanic, Asian and Native American young people between the ages of 16 and 21.

Counselors have been assigned to Job Servie Centers in Seattle (Rainier), Tacoma, Spokane and the Tri-Cities to develop individual employment and training plans and find jobs for young workers. Special effort will be made to keep students in school and enroll those not in school in education and training programs that will lead to stable employment.

We will help young people who are economically disadvantaged or have other problems such as dropping out of school. In addition to contacting employers to develop jobs for the young people, project staff will coordinate with local education and training programs to make referrals for the participants.

Two other programs for unemployed young people between 18 and 25 are the Washington Service Corps and the Washington Conservation Corps. A special effort is made to recruit minority and disadvantaged people and preference will be given to applicants residing in areas of high unemployment.

The Service Corps is for those young adults who are dedicated to helping others and serving their community. They work for private or public non-profit organizations helping the poor, the handicapped or the elderly. They might perform a research project, work in a counseling center, provide infomation and referral services or care for the sick.

In the Conservation Corps, enrollees perform projects for any one of six state agencies. Working for the Departments of Game, Ecology, Natural Resources, Fisheries, Agriculture and the State Parks and Recreation Commission, they might be involved in controling erosion, insects or weeds. Or, they could be assigned to stream rehabilitation, irrigation assistance, clearing land, building fences, constructing trails or tagging fish. Whatever the job, it will be a group effort that provides long term benefits to society at large.

Although in the Service Corps and the Conservation Corps participants only receive a small monthly stipend or minimum hourly wage, they will learn new skills and receive work and training experience that will prove extremely valuable in the future.

Young people can learn more about the Washington Conservation Corps, the Washington Service Corps and other youth program by talking to an interviewer at the local Job Service Center.

N.W. Indian Fisheries Commisson Tribes React To 86 Legislature

OLYMPIA-- "The 1986 State Legislature accomplished many things in some areas, but was disappointing in others," Billy Frank, chairman of the Northwest Indian Fisheries Commission said upon adjournment of the Legislative session.

"The tribes are pleased with the confirmation of Bill Wilkerson as director of the State Department of Fisheries. We may not agree with everything he says, but we believe he is largely responsible for the success of cooperative fisheries management," said Frank.

"We applaud Governor Gardner for passage of Senate Bill 4519, the Puget Sound Clean Up Law. We believe this new law creates a great opportunity to begin the clean up of the Sound in earnest. This is long overdue," said Frank.

"We were happy that Governor Gardner appointed Terry Williams to the Puget Sound Water Quality Authority. It was an indication of the new direction in fisheries management, and a sign of support for state/tribal cooperation," said Frank. William was confirmed as a member of PSWQA by the Senate on March 12.

"It became very clear during the session that Governor Gardner and most state lawmakers support state/tribal cooperation and negotiation," said Frank. "We welcome this, and see it as the only hope for rebuilding the Northwest fisheries resource. We only hope that the state is serious, and that its words and actions are genuine."

"We are happy that the Legislature took action on the Hydraulic Permit Act (HB 1545). This act was the result of much hard work by the Hydraulics Committee is not the answer to all the hydraulic problems in the state, but it does recognize the importance of fish, and it maintains some regulatory powers for the state fisheries management agencies in the installation of hydraulic projects."

"It became clear during this session that many of the state's lawmakers lack basic knowledge about the stewardship of shellfish, and about Indian rights pertaining to shellfish harvest. Hopefully, this situation will change," said Frank.

Frank also expressed appreciation that House Bill 1362, the fish marketing bill, was passed by the Legislature. "The state and the tribes have devoted a lot of effort to the rebuilding of the fish resource, and many fishermen have had better rebuilding of the fish resource, and many fishermen have had better harvests as a result. So it is a shame to have the bottom drop out of the market like it did this past year for both Indian and non-Indian fishermen. The state has a lot to gain from a healthy fisheries industry, and should be involved in fish marketing."

Flemings Deadly Force Bill Goes To Governor

(Olympia) Guidlines on law enforcement officers' use of deadly force, rest on the Governor's desk after both houses of the Legislature passed a bill (Sd 4465) to determine when deadly force can be used.

Senator George Fleming (D-37th District) worked through several legislative sessions to establish guidelines which say deadly force can only be used if the suspect poses a threat of serious physical harm to the officer or others.

This year, the bill passed the Senate and the House, and is expected to gain the signature of Governor Booth Gardner. The legislation was requested by law enforcement groups to clarify their responsibility in dealing with fleeing suspects.

"This measure is long overdue," Fleming said in urging passage of the bill. "It now brings Washington law into conformance with a recent U.S. decision on deadly force."

Several weeks ago, when Fleming first debated the bill on the Senate floor he noted that current state law "allows the use of deadly force to stop any fleeing felon, including people who commit relatively minor crimes."

Senate Judiciary Chairman Phil Talmadge (D-34th District) said the bill clarifies Washington law "and makes clear that there's a standard for use of deadly force by law enforcement officers that doesn't impact on standards of use of deadly force by citizens of our state."

The United States Supreme Court ruled last year (Garner vs. Tennessee) that deadly force cannot be used in the case of a fleeing felon who demonstrates no apparent threat to the oficer.

Fleming said he wished the legislature had acted on his measure last year "when it was before us so we could have passed this law because it was the right thing to do. This year it was overwhelmingly approved because it was necessary to bring our state law into conformance with federal law."

Governor Proclaims State Apprenticeship Week

Gov. Booth Gardner has named March 24-30 Apprenticeship Week in Washington State, saying that the development of a qualified workforce is essential to state economic growth.

"Apprenticeship is good for our state," Gardner said. "A skilled workforce attracts industry, and the better educated Washington workers are, the more economic development we can support. I strongly encourage businesses and young people to make use of the advantages apprenticeship offers."

The state apprenticeship program, administered by the Department of Labor and Industries, was established in 1941 to help employers develop qualified workers by providing uniform training guidelines and salary schedules for various crafts.

In addition to traditional apprenticeships in areas such as building, printing and metal trades, state-approved programs are now available for bakers, optical technicians, legal secretaries, dental technicians and others. There are currently about 300 state-approved apprenticeship programs, and more are added every year.

Two-to five-year apprenticeships are available to high school graduates (or G.E.D. certificate holders) 18 years or older who wish to learn a skilled trade. Applicants are screened by members of local joint apprenticeship and training committees made up of worker and employer representatives. Standards for apprenticeships are set by the Washington State Apprenticeship and Training Council.

Washington will host the Northwest States' Apprenticeship Conference at the Hyatt House Hotel in Seattle on March 26, 27 and 28. The annual conference gives employers, apprentices and the public a chance to learn about trades, share innovative technologies and ideas, and look at ways to upgrade training.

The conference is co-sponsored by labor and management groups and the Department of Labor and Industries' Apprenticeship Section. About 400 people are expected to attend. Tickets are $90, and registrations will be taken at the door from 9 to 12 a.m. on March 26. Further information about the converence is available from Ronald W. Knight, conference coordinator, (206) 448-9611 in Seattle.

Gifted Students

Summer Scholars, an enrichment program for academically gifted high school sophomores and junors, will be offered at Pacific Lutheran University July 7-26.

PLU is one of only a handful of institutions nationwide offering such a progrm, according to coordinator Dr. Judy Carr. The program is intended to bring together good students and god teachers and ask them to do good work, she explained.

Summer scholars is a residential program, "a very important dimension," according to Carr.

The program is sponsored by PLU and assisted by funds from the Tacoma Area Council on Giftedness. Candidates are usually nominated by their school district, but they may also be nominated by a parent or member of the community. As a rule, they are in a top five percent of their class.

Program courses include mathematics, writing and literature, chemistry, political science, philosophy, history, international issues, art and biology. A student selects one core class and two electives.

Carr indicated that enrollment is limited to 50. Last year's group was almost evenly divided between boys and girls. They came from 30 high schools throughout the state.

Nominees receive an application form which must be returned by April 11. Final selections are announced May 1. For more information write Dr. Carr at PLU or call (206)535-7130.
